

PARKS CANADA

Parks Canada is calling on Canadians to support the national effort to limit the spread of COVID-19 and stay home.

- To reduce the risk of COVID-19, Park Canada has reduced the number of visitors and employees.

- People are being stubborn which Parks Canada needs to shut down temporarily to protect the health and safety of Canadians. Despite the suspension of visitor services and closure of facilities on March 19, 2020, high visitation levels have occurred in a number of parks leading to public safety and health concerns.

The agency is temporarily suspending all motor vehicle access by visitors at all national parks, national historic sites, and national marine conservation areas.

Highways and roadways which pass through Parks Canada places will remain open. And parking is not permitted on highways and roadways.

In addition, Parks Canada will continue to deliver services critical for Canadians, including highway maintenance and snow removal, fire response, dam operations and water management on historic waterways, as well as avalanche forecasting and control, among others.

Following the rules for public safety, Parks Canada is asking Canadians to stay home.

Anyone visiting a Parks Canada location, should cancel their plans as vehicle access for the purposes of visitor use will be suspended until further notice.

Parks Canada team says to limit the spread of COVID-19 and cancel any non-essential travel.

Minister of Environment and Climate Change and Minister responsible for Parks Canada Jonathan Wilkinson said “The government’s top priority remains the health and safety of Canadians. The window to contain the spread of COVID-19 is short and we must all change our behavior now to flatten the curve and reduce the burden on our health care system. I am asking all Canadians to follow the advice of public health experts, stay home, and undertake essential travel only. At this time, we are also asking Canadians not to visit Canada’s national parks, national historic sites, and national marine conservation areas. We must all work together to limit the spread of COVID-19.”

Manmohan Singh Director Indian Meteorological Department comments on the Parks Canada and says “at present all around the world almost in all countries Corona virus has made its presence and affecting the people. Many people are suffering and casualties are increasing day by day. Government has already shut down its machinery for the sake of the safety of people and requesting people to stay inside. Closing of this Park is a part of the action taken by the Government. And I personally feel that people should stay inside for the safety of themselves, for the safety of their family, society, country and entire nation. People should maintain the social distancing and they should forget the park for some time.”
